Water as a Design Medium

Provider: LATICRETE International Inc. (J-037)

Program #: AIA-01

Credits: 1 LU Hour

Program: Water as a Design Medium

SD: YES

HSW: Yes

Description:

This seminar will discuss the design and specification issues to be considered when designing areas that will be subject to water exposure. The program will highlight the options for, Surface Preparation, Waterproofing, Setting Materials, and Grouts, including the benefits that are now available through new technology in this field. The course will review and emphasize the detailing necessary to obtain successful installations of tile and stone in wet areas, while comparing cost and labor impacts for the various systems presented.

Learning Objectives:

At the end of the program, the participant will be able to:

1. Understand the most important considerations for design of wet areas.
2. Have complete knowledge of the steps required to achieve successful wet area installations.
3. Understand the latest technologies available for installation of these systems.
4. Know where to access resources for innovative design and specification information.

Approach:

A PowerPoint presentation that incorporates photo images, project installations and computer animation will be used. There will be a questions and answer period at the end of the program, however, the program is designed to be interactive and questions are encouraged throughout as well.

A/V Needed:

Electric power and a screen, video system or blank wall for the PowerPoint presentation. (The CES facilitator will provide the laptop and projector).

Target Audience:

Architect, Engineers, Specifiers, Owners and other Design Professionals in the commercial, residential and industrial markets.

Facilitator Qualifications:

The CES facilitators receive in house training on CES guidelines and presentation skills. All have extensive construction industry experience and up to 25 years in the tile and stone industry.

Cost:

Not Applicable. There is no fee for bringing this program into a firm or chapter meeting.
